

Film (English version) & Discussion

by Roland Wehap, Ö 2007

The semi-documentary film "BURMA ALL INCLUSIVE" describes the situation in a country which has, as a result of its political situation, for a long time been isolated from the outside world, but which is now slowly opening up to tourism. $ find their way into the pockets of precisely those who have taken this country hostage: the generals. Not even the Nobel Peace Prize has changed the situation: Aung San Suu Kyii is still, to this day, isolated from the world outside.
